The Girl and Her Kiss Those Who Kisa Quickly Are Talked About and Have Small Chances of Marrying. By Leatrice Pairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 10 and have known a young man two years older who lives near me all my life. I have been abroad for five years, and upon my late return home, of course, resumed friendly re-lations with his people. He asked me if he might kiss me, which I refused and after that tried several times in a playful way to careas me, which I also resented, whereat he called me "cold." Do you think If he really cared as much for me as he areas to much for me as he appeared to at first be would be so easily discouraged,

S O he called you "cold," did he? Dear me, what a dreadful indictment-cold-what a crime to be 'cold" to a man you know so very lit-

"cold" to a man you know so very little about.

Teil me, little girl, which would you rather do, have this very "friendly" young man tell you that you are "cold" or have him tell other men that you are not at all cold?

Wouldn't say anything about you for worlds? That's what you think, isn't it? Well, now, just make up that good, sensible little mind of yours to think differently, that's all.

I don't know the young man in question, but if he's anything like most of the young men I do happen to know, he isn't so very secretive about his opinion of the girls he knows.

Why should he be, pray tell?

Why should a girl let a man kiss her if she's afraid he'll tell somebody about it, if she doesn't want people to know. Don't do it, that's all.

The kissing girl is known from one end of her town to the other, and known, too, as a "kisser"—oh, yes, it sounds coarse, and it is coarse; that's the worst of it—but it's true.

What man wants to marry a girl who's kissed every man she met for sounds coarse, and it is coarse; that's the worst of it—but it's true.

What man wants to marry a girl who's kissed every man she met for the last four or five years?

Who wants to meet his friends and have them look at his wife with a reminiscent smile?

Were you too reserved?

The Ressen Why.

The Resson Why. What in the world makes you think Because the man doesn't come to see

That simply means that he doesn't want to spend his time with you unless you let him make all kinds of love to you—what of it?

you let himsmake all kinds of love to you—what of it?

Do you want to be his "spooning" girl and nothing eise?

If you do, just call him up and the first time he comes around show him that you are sorry that you were what the calls so "cold"—and see what he will do—I hope you will do no such thing—I hope you'll show that young man that he'll have to look elsewhere for temporary amusement of that sort.

If he loves you he'll come back. He won't stay away because you are "cold."

If he doesn't love you, the sooner he begins staying away the better—for you and for him, too.

Stick to your colors, little girl, the Stick to your colors, little girl, the clean, wholesome, honest colors of clean, wholesome, honest girthood—they'll win; they'll win—and what they win will be worth keeping.

Hunt's Friends to Make Fight at Bisbee Convention to Prevent Endorsement.

Phoenix, Ariz, Sept. 22.—When the annual convention of the Arizona State Federation of Labor meets at Hisbee, October 13, a strong effort will be made by friends of governor George W. P. Hunt to prevent the indersement of state senator A. A. Worsley, of Tucson, for the governorship. Present in-dications are that Worsley will redications are that Worsiey will receive that indorsement in spite of the Hunt opposition.

Hunt polled thousands upon thousands of labor votes in 1911. The Sosialist vote showed a decided decrease and this was laid to the fact that Hunt was regarded as the friend of the working. workingman.

Today senator Worsley occupies the same position in the affections and confidence of laborites and Socialists that Hunt occupied prior to the first state election. It is not charged that Hunt has falled his friends of the laboring class, but he has been unfor-tunate in having a legislature that opposed nearly every one of his ideas. Laboring men feel that with Hunt and a different legislature, or with the legislature and a different governor, they would have been treated much

Urge Worsley to Run. Labor leaders have recently called on Worsley, at Tucson, and asked him to announce positively that he would be a candidate for governor in opposition to Hunt and the other Democrats who hope to occupy the principal suite of offices at the state capitol. Worsley has been just "foxy" enough to tell them all that he cannot think of making the race unless he is assured that the laboring people are solidly behind him. And how can that assurance better be given than through an endorsement by the annual con-

"I'd like to be governor, of course,

"I'd like to be governor, of course, but I'm not running for anything now," is the way that Johnson talks. But a Cochise county Democrat who is a strong friend of Johnson is now in the northern part of the state, spreading it about that the treasurer is out for Hunt's place.
